

Write a short paper concerning the agile method which you selected and were approved. Your paper should describe the method and relate its characteristics to the Agile Manifesto and the principles of agile methods in general. Attempt to find where the method is currently being used, where it has been used in the past with success and if there has been any failures with its use. Discuss its strengths and weaknesses as compared to traditional methods or other agile methods. Also look for the size of the teams on the projects which used the method and the complexity of the projects on which it has been used. Be sure to give the history (with names and dates) along with the origin of the method. Was there any special event or problem which led to its development?

Your paper should use reliable sources. Unreliable sources will result in the paper being rendered unacceptable. Your paper should be doubled spaced with one inch margins using twelve point font (Times New Roman). References should be MLA Seventh Edition format.

You will give a short five-minute presentation to the class concerning your agile method.
